

Staying Safe Online!

Talking Together...

One of the best ways to stay safe online is to talk together about scenarios that may occur, before they occur. Use these ideas below to talk about potential issues online and ways to stay safe.

You can't stop playing computer games or using your phone until really late every evening.

You notice your friend has a picture of themselves in school uniform as their profile picture on social media accounts.

Your friend has been talking to someone new online. He/she tells you they are going to meet up tomorrow.

You've been playing an online game and someone you have never met asks to be your friend.

You are browsing social networking sites and your parents don't know about it because you are afraid they won't approve.

You have sent a picture of yourself to a friend and they have put it on social media. You want to get it taken off.

You search on social media for someone you know. You aren't 'friends' online but you can see all their details.

You shared your social media password with a friend and now they have used it to log on to your account and post mean messages.

You keep receiving mean messages from people you are involved with in a group chat.

You receive an email from someone you think you know, asking you to click on a link or attachment.
